Part Three: A Creative Practice

"An Alchemist must have a medium for any form of alchemy to succeed."

A man, James Bridle, stands on a stage with his arms raised in a celebratory gesture. He is wearing a dark sweater over a light-colored shirt and dark trousers. The background is a large screen displaying a blue gradient. To the right, there is a podium with a microphone and a water bottle. Several large black speakers are visible on the stage floor.

"...every web page and every essay, and every line of text written or quoted therein, is a link to other words, thoughts and ideas."

James Bridle

“What's happening now is that the web of data wants to escape the screen, it wants to materialise into the real world, it wants to get physical, become objects.”

Russell Davies

Part Five: Practical Alchemy for Beginners

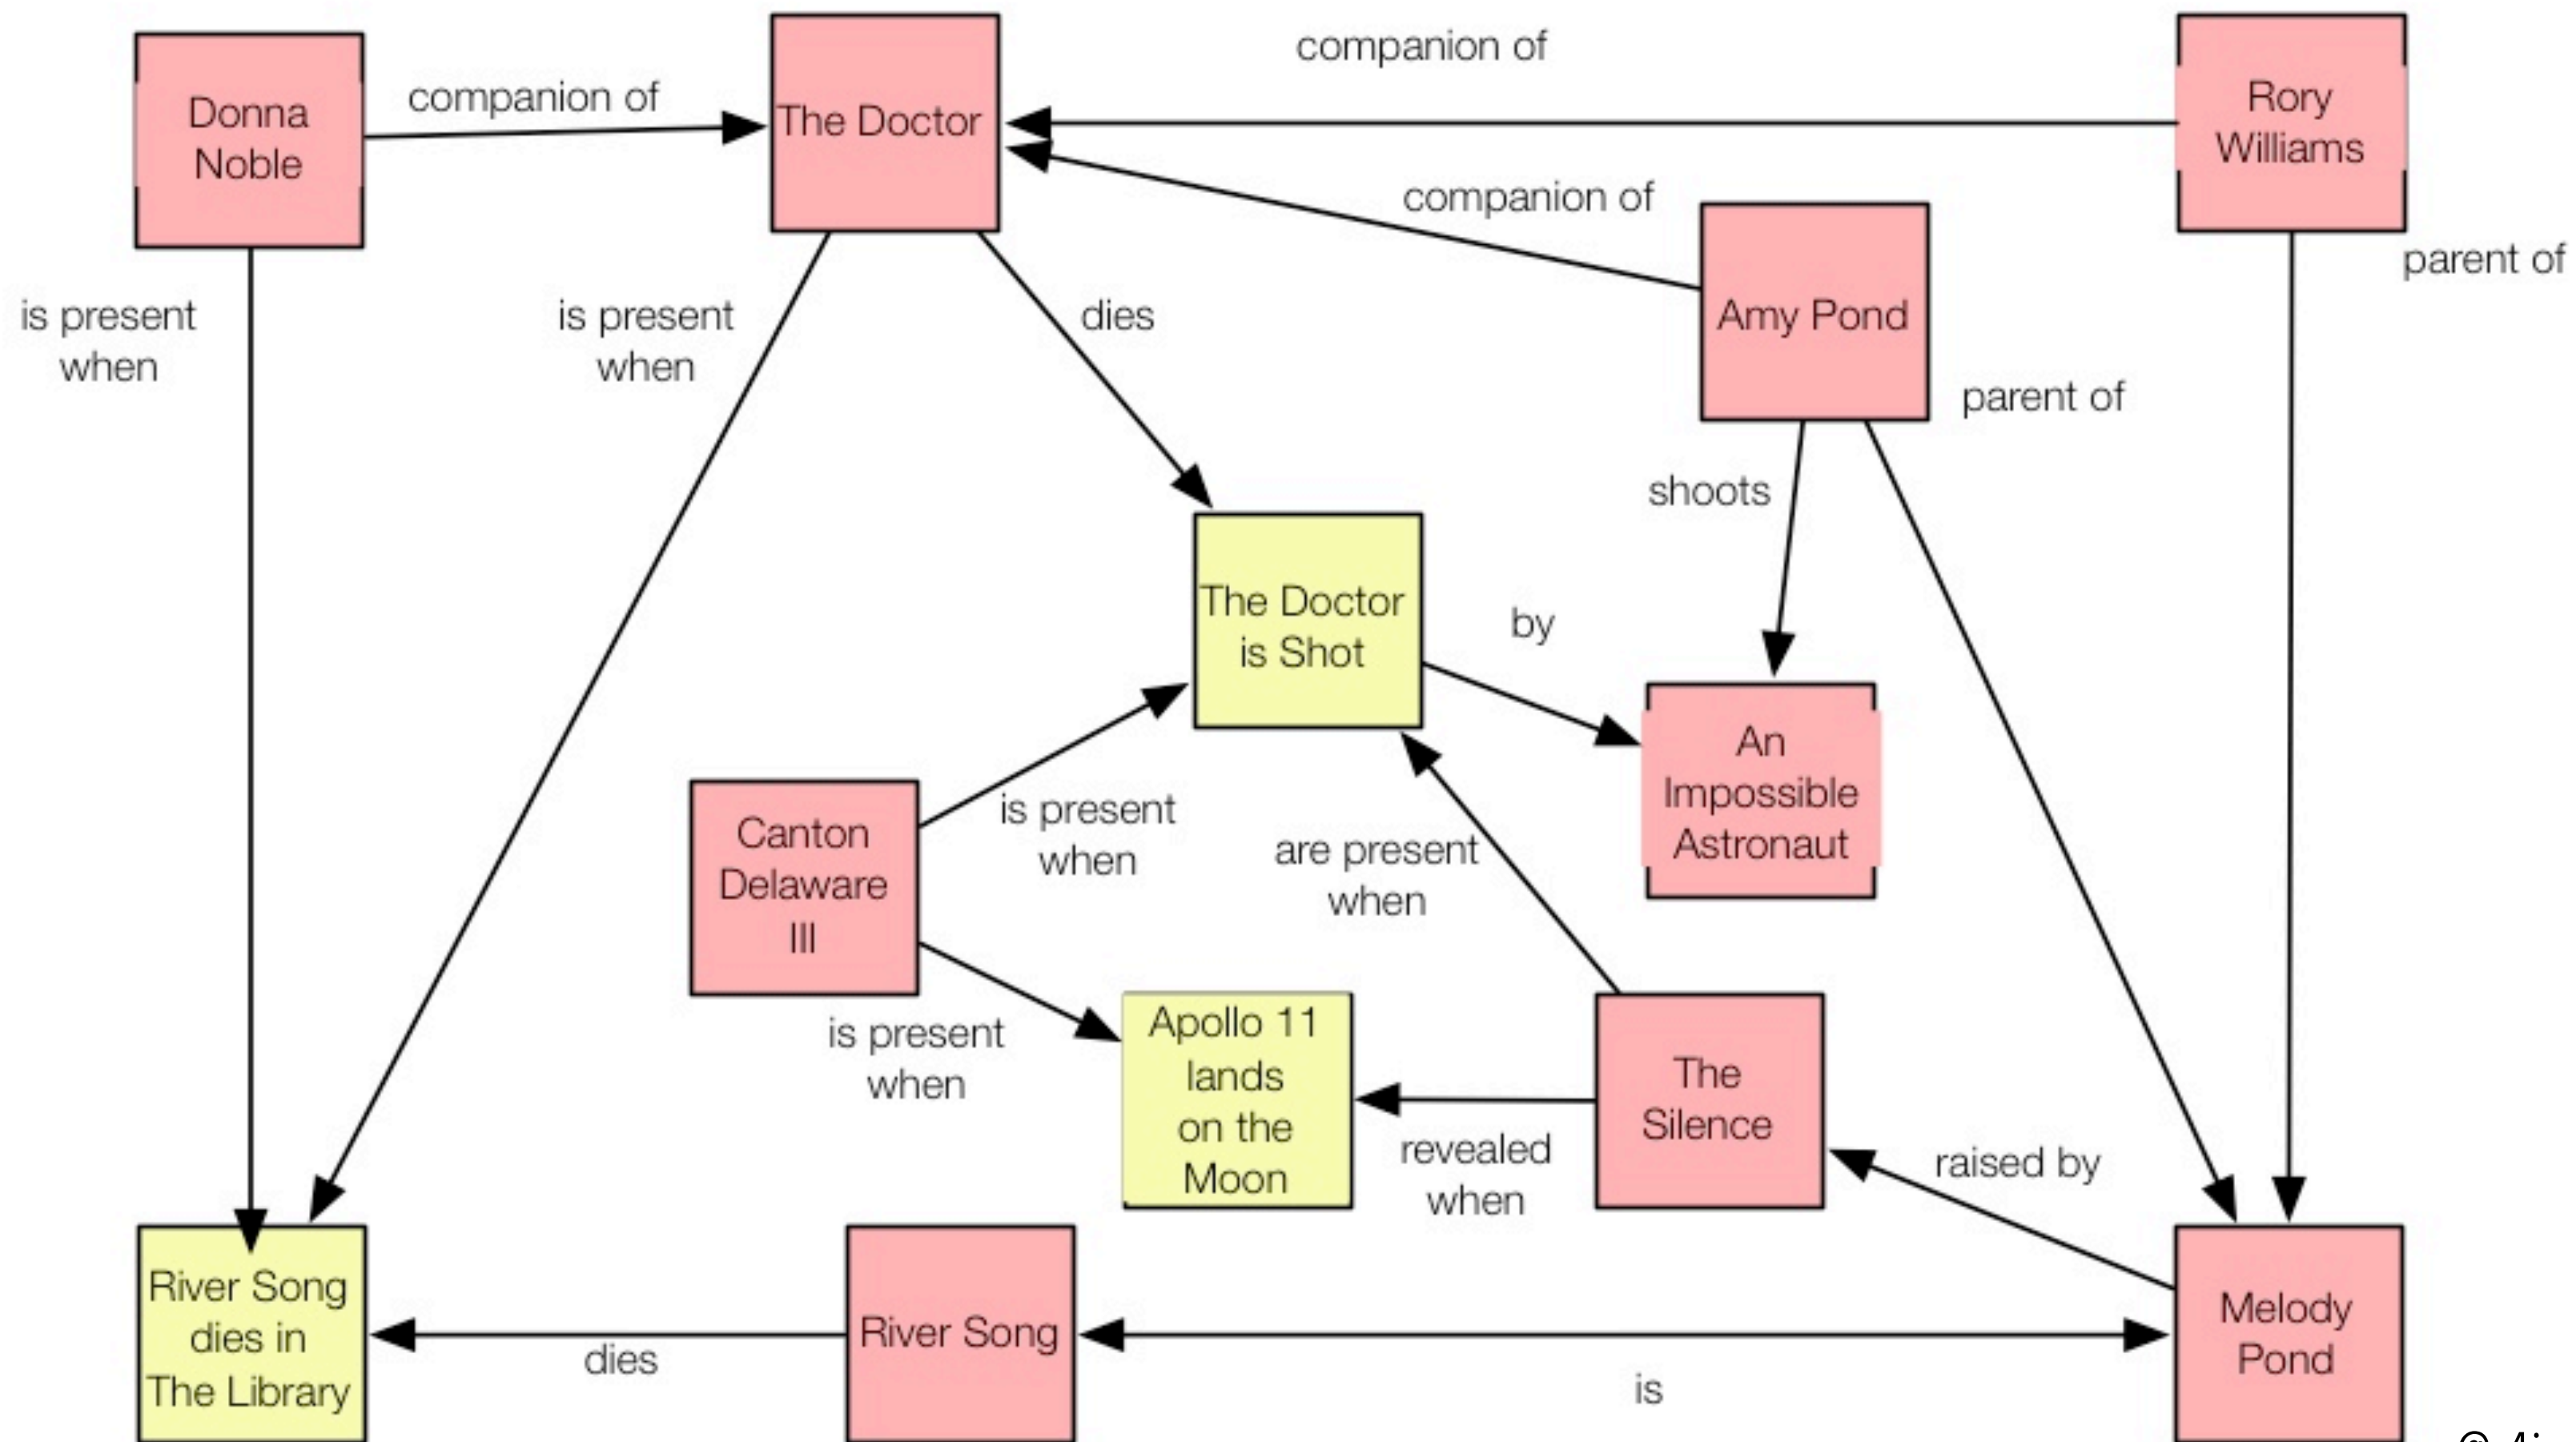

The Laws of Alchemy

- An Alchemist must have a medium for any form of alchemy to succeed.

The Laws of Alchemy

- In order for true alchemy to operate, an Alchemist must fully understand the structure of matter. He/she must possess the "sight" (the ability to not see an object as a whole, but as a structure constructed of trillions upon trillions of atoms).

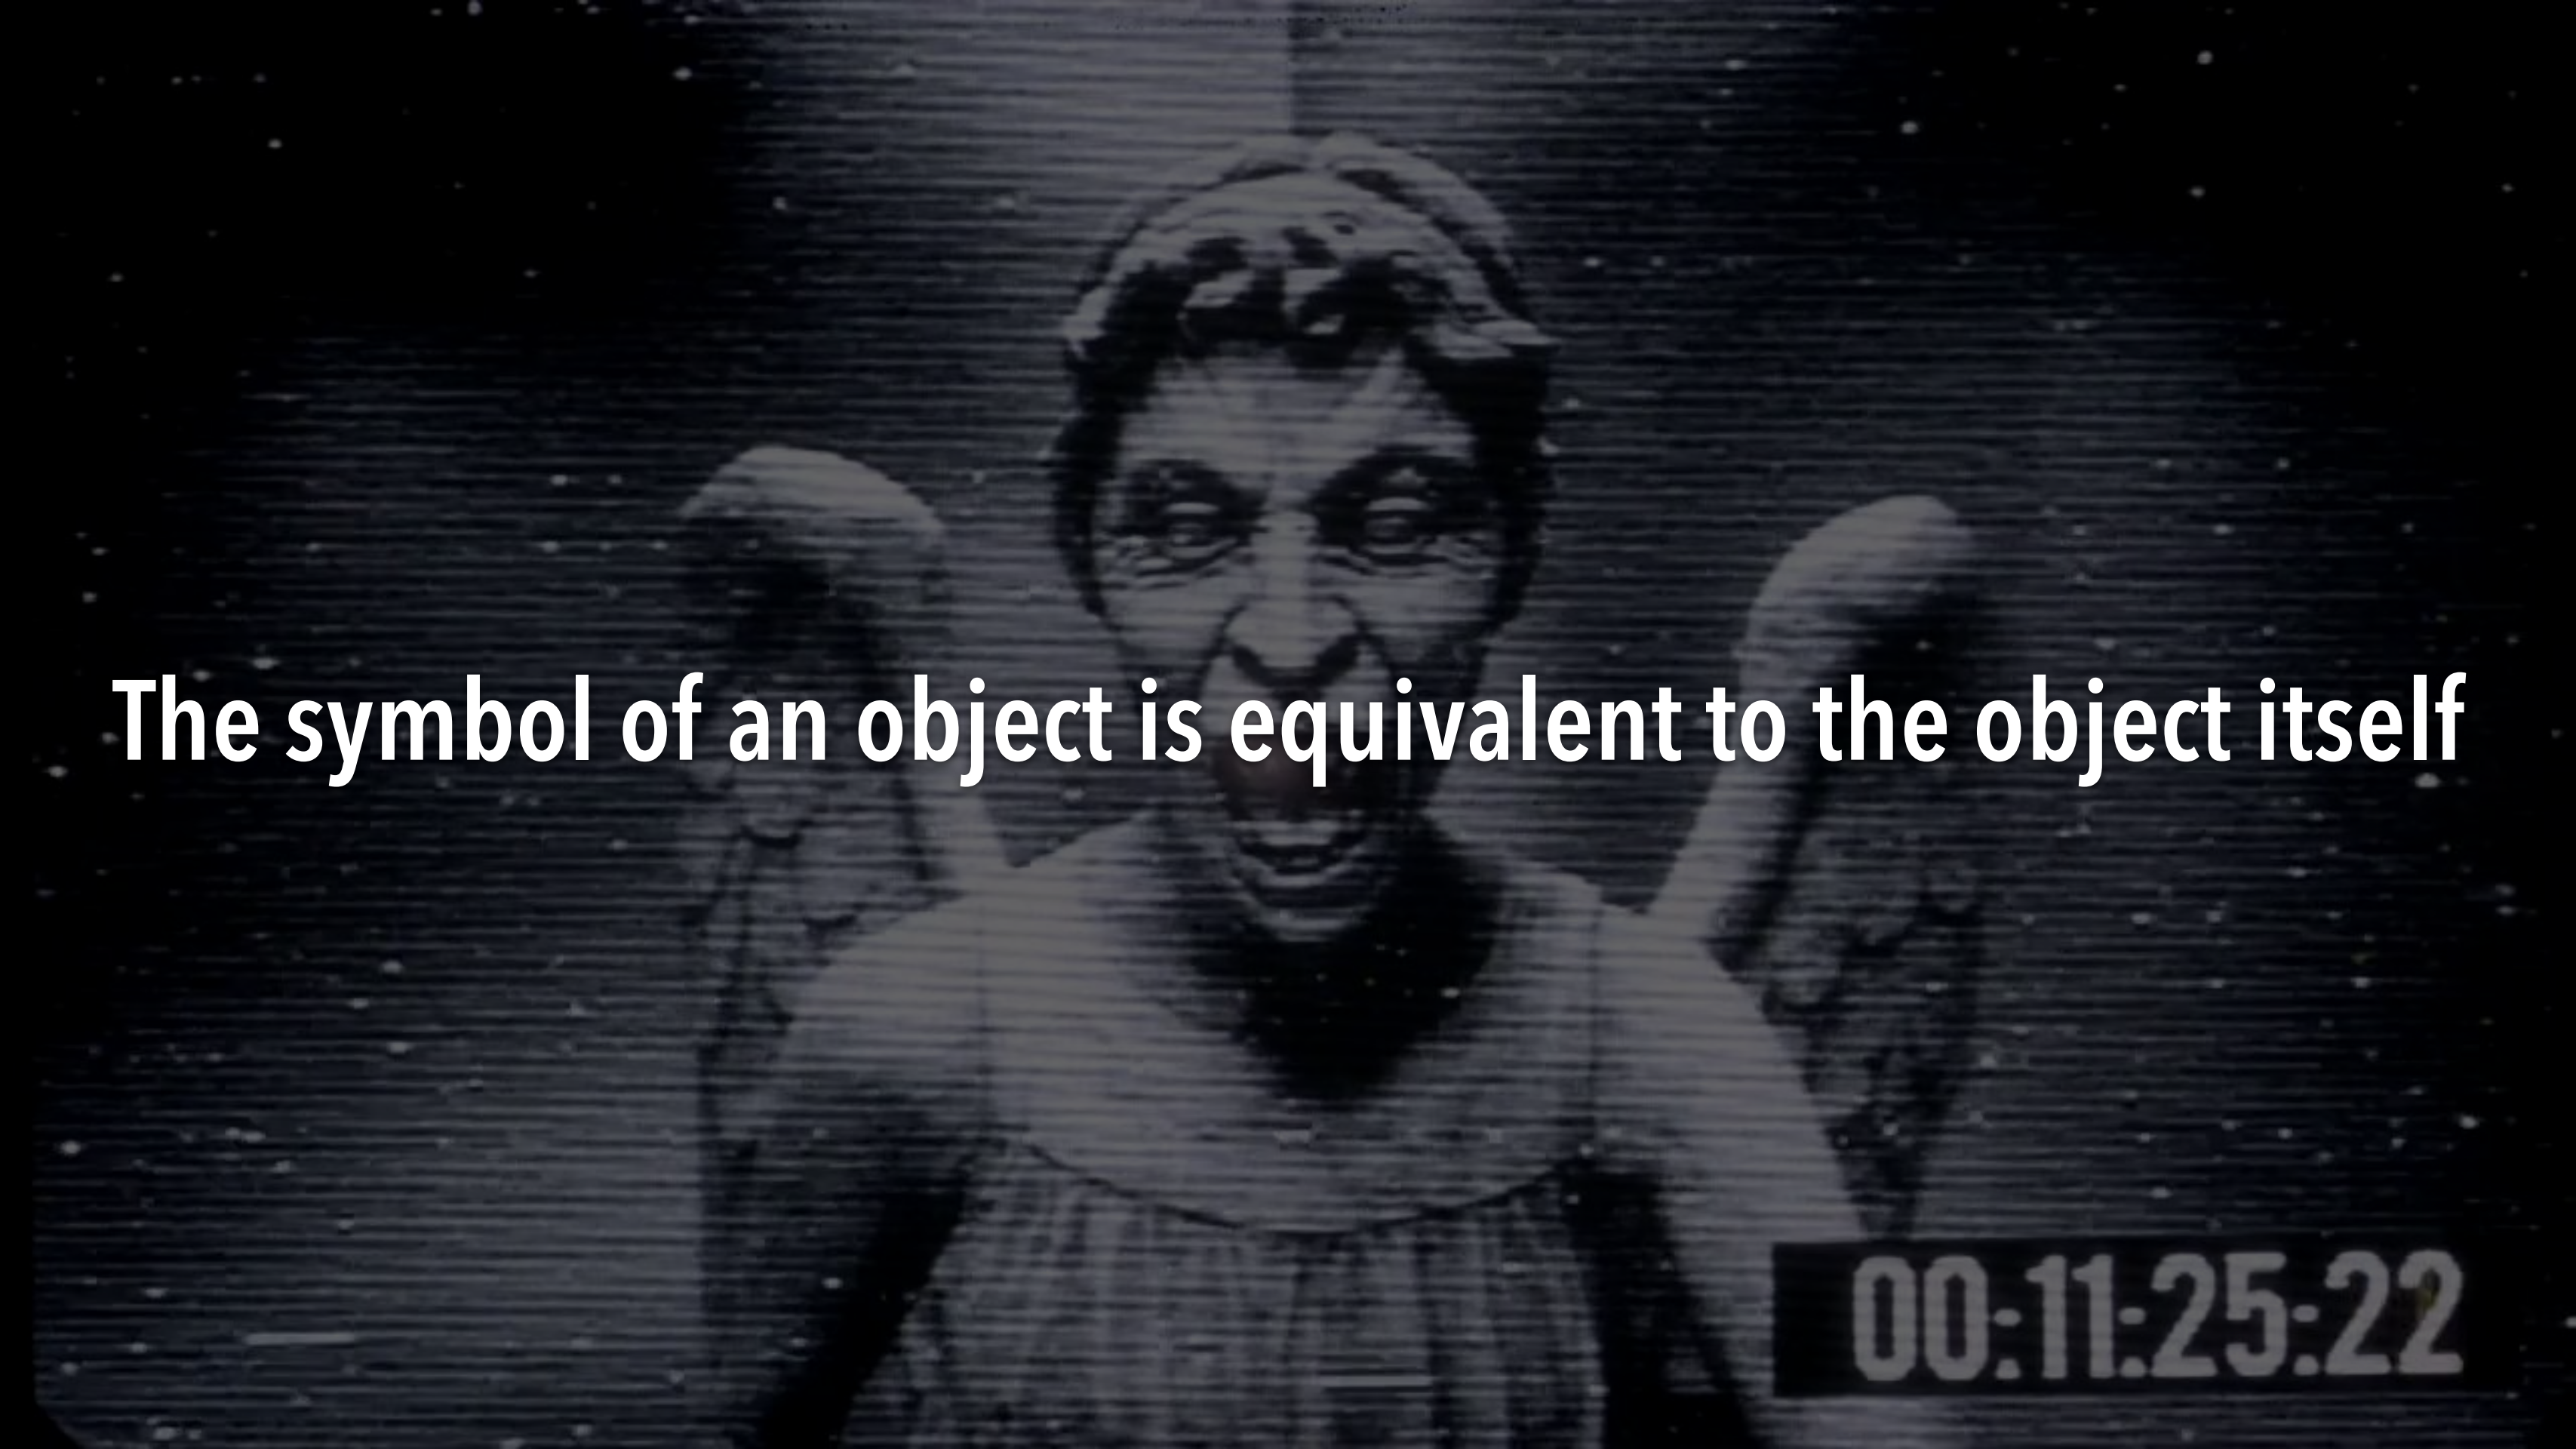

00:11:25:22

"As above, so below..."

00:11:25:22

The symbol of an object is equivalent to the object itself

00:11:25:22

"An image of an Angel is an Angel itself..."

00:11:25:22

"What if our thoughts could think for themselves?

What if our dreams no longer needed us?

When these things occur and are held to be true,
the time will be upon us.

The time of Angels."

00:11:25:22

Designing Webs:

IA as a Creative Practice

- Think Webs, not just Websites.
- The WWW is a medium which is ideally suited to expressing creativity
- Engage with the networked world by creating culture, both high & low
- APIs and the Internet of Things show that magic & alchemy are possible
